

Danny Zwilling

Drama

Danny Zwilling has been teaching drama to children for eleven years. He has considerable experience teaching improv, musical theatre, and basic acting techniques. He has also successfully written and directed plays for children that have been performed in the Gainesville community.

Danny is certified by the state of Florida to teach drama in the public schools, and he currently teaches third grade at Alachua Elementary School. He has performance experience as an actor in several plays, commercials, independent movies, and one television pilot. Danny is extremely passionate about enhancing his student's imagination, creativity, and self-confidence through acting classes and performances.
