

Misti

Breakdancing Teacher

Misti came to Gainesville in 2001 to attend the University of Florida and found herself seeking other students who had a love for hip hop. She met friends who were starting a new student organization and, that year, was part of the foundation of the student organization that is still called The Hip Hop Collective today! The Hip Hop Collective represented all four elements of Hip Hop. Misti began breakin' and her group quickly became one of the most active student organizations on campus for the next four years. She was involved in countless performances in Gainesville and began traveling Florida and beyond as a competitive Bgirl. Misti has a love for movement and physical fitness. She has been training others in the fitness community since high school. She was competitive in the breakin' scene until 2012 when she had her first child. Since then, she has been involved with dance mostly by teaching others and using her skills to stay fit and strong. Misti is excited to give back to the community by sharing her knowledge about hip hop and breakin' skills!
