

Leacy Burton Dance Instructor

Leacy Burton is a student at the University of Florida. She is majoring in Public Relations with minors in Business and Dance. She is from Orlando, FL and started dancing when she was 3 years old. Leacy was a competition dancer with In Motion Dance Project and has had diverse training across the country. One of her favorite experiences has been being able to attend the Rockette's Summer Intensive for two years. However, she spent lots of time in the Central Florida area attending many conventions and competitions. She has received various first place soloist awards and special awards at competitions.

For a year, Leacy danced with a non-profit group called "Dance Out Bullying." The group traveled around to local schools and community events raising awareness about bullying through the art of dance. She said "I think dance is a tool that we can use to bring awareness and create thought provoking ideas." Leacy is excited to be back in a dance studio and looks forward to sharing her knowledge!
